

MOSCOW, RUSSIA – Moody International Russia employees recently took part in charity activities for the “Help Here and Now” cause.

June 1 of every year is “International Child Protection Day”. This day helps to remind us of the needs of children and to take care of those who face misery and difficulties in life through no fault of their own.

“Help Here and Now” took place in Moscow, Russia, on May 31 and June 1, 2008. Volunteers helped contribute to an orphaned children fund, and the website “Otkazniki.ru” organized the charity activities. During these two days, volunteers visited and interacted with orphaned children in Moscow hospitals and in hospitals from other regions. The support was also expressed through the donation of toys, nutritional items, clothes, and hygiene products for these children.

During the entire month of May, Moody International Russia personnel contributed and collected money. In total USD $1,000.00 was donated and the money was used to purchase napkins/diapers and nutritional items for the orphaned babies.

Svetlana Khamitova (seen in this picture), Personnel Director at Moody International Russia, gave much of her time volunteering, organizing the monetary donation effort, and purchasing the items for the orphans.

Thank you to Svetlana and all those who contributed to this charitable action. Many babies and children were able to smile a little brighter because of you!
