Capitalizing on a ever-increasing rapid market expansion as a result of major oil & gas offshore developments, Moody International recently set-off on a strategy to build an even stronger presence in Angola. This resulted in the recent appointment of a new Operations Manager, Mr. Keith Brown. As well, Ms. Helia Chamuel and Mr. Benitel (Ben) Miguel were hired as Administrative Assistant and Company Driver respectively. Moody Angola also moved to new offices in the Alvalade area in Luanda, within close proximity to the city center and Luanda airport.

Activities in Angola include the supply of Technical Staffing Services (TSS) of both expatriates and Angolan nationals to major oil & gas companies operating in the region, including ExxonMobil, Technip, Bechtel, and BP. Moody Angola also provides over forty Angolan nationals to support the local BP operations in Luanda. As well, with the support of the Moody International Group, Moody Angola is currently working to develop and train local resources to provide Technical Inspection Services (TIS) such as vendor inspection and expediting, in major manufacturing centers in the region.

Frederic Leforestier, International Board Director and Regional Director for Africa, notes "Angola is one of our key development countries in Africa and I am confident that with this new structure, Moody International Angola is now even better positioned to deliver our services locally and win additional work with major oil & gas companies operating in the region. Keith, together with continued support from Alex Casimiro and the local team of Helia and Ben, will be instrumental in making our operations in Angola even more of a success."
